

Middle School Learning Support Teacher

The Manitou School is seeking a warm, flexible, experienced, progressive Learning Support Teacher to work with middle school students (grades 6-8) who benefit from academic support, intervention, and differentiation. The ideal candidate will be enthusiastic about working in a collaborative, student-centered environment and committed to fostering inclusion and academic growth for all learners.

Key Responsibilities:

- Provide individualized and small-group instruction to support students with diverse learning needs;
- Collaborate with classroom teachers to implement accommodations and modifications within the curriculum;
- Assess students' learning styles and develop tailored strategies to enhance academic success;
- Serve as a liaison between families, teachers, and any outside specialists or evaluators;
- Support the development of executive functioning, study skills, and self-advocacy in students;
- Serve as a valued member of the Middle School Teaching team, sharing insights about students and working together to provide students with a holistic learning experience;
- Participate in professional development and school-wide initiatives to support a culture of inclusion and continuous learning.

Qualifications:

- Bachelor's degree in Special Education, Education, or related field (Master's preferred)
- Certification in Special Education or related area preferred
- Minimum 2 years experience working with middle school students, preferably in a learning support or resource capacity
- Deep understanding of a range of learning profiles and differentiated instructional practices

- Strong communication and collaboration skills
- Commitment to progressive education and the school's mission and values

About the Manitou School

The Manitou School is a small, progressive independent school in the Hudson Valley. Our fully bilingual education program uses progressive teaching methods grounded in social-emotional development – creating a warm, engaging environment where children can learn and grow.

Through inquiry-based learning models, adaptive curriculum, and a variety of enrichment programs, our school offers a heart-centered approach to education that puts the well-being of our students at the center of all we do.

A Manitou education is one that sees each child as the center of the educational experience and creates a school environment where every child thrives. We also offer parents an opportunity to have greater involvement with the school and develop programs that benefit the community.
